

Task 4: “Know Your Roots, Build Your Future*

In this task, you are expected to research and write deeply about your native place or current hometown. This task not only enhances your awareness but also develops a sense of leadership, responsibility, and pride in your roots.

What You Have to Write:

1. About Your Place:

Name of your village/town/city and its district, state.

Historical significance (Any battle, ancient ruler, kingdom, monument or past importance).

Cultural importance (fairs, festivals, traditions, folk music/dance, dress, food).

Famous temples, tourist places, personalities from your place.

2. Current Challenges of Your Place:

Unemployment?

Education facilities?

Water or electricity shortage?

Transportation issues?

Health & sanitation concerns?

Explain in depth..

3. Your Proposed Solutions:

What you think should be done to solve the above issues?

How can youth participation help?

What steps have you personally taken so far?

4. Government Actions:

What steps has the government already taken?

Which schemes are running there?

Do you think they are effective? If not, what improvements can be made?

 Additional Questions for Self-Reflection:

1. What makes your place unique from others?

2. If given a chance, what changes would you bring to improve your place in 5 years?

3. Have you ever led any social activity, campaign or movement in your area (e.g., cleanliness drive, blood donation, awareness rally)?

4. How do local leaders or influencers impact the youth of your place?

5. What are some common mindsets or beliefs in your region that need change?

6. What do you want the future generation to remember about your contribution?

 Leadership Examples (to include in your response):

Share at least 1–2 leadership experiences from your life, for example:

Organizing a camp (like blood donation, plantation, education drive).

Helping during natural calamities (flood, drought, pandemic).

Mentoring or guiding younger students or teams.

Speaking up for a community issue in front of local authority.

Creating or running any group/channel to educate or inspire others.

 Final Note by Admin (You):

"A true leader understands his roots, identifies challenges, and stands up to bring positive change. This task will reflect your connection with your identity, responsibility toward your region, and your role in nation-building."
